07.12.2016

On a test flight, a KC-46A Pegasus refuels a C-17 Globemaster III from JB Lewis-McChord, Wash., as an F-16 flies nearby. This mission successfully tested the hydraulic pressure relief valves installed on the tanker to correct axial loads in the boom that had been higher than expected. See "Air Force World: Boeing's Boom Solution," p. 20.