

Do you think NATO should or should not have a missile defense system with the ability to protect NATO forces and NATO countries from an attack by missiles that might contain nuclear, chemical or biological weapons?

