

USAF MAJOR COMMANDS

The Air Force has six Institutional Commands focused on the recruit, train, and equip function of the department, and 10 Service Component Commands focused on meeting the needs of the nation's joint combatant commands.

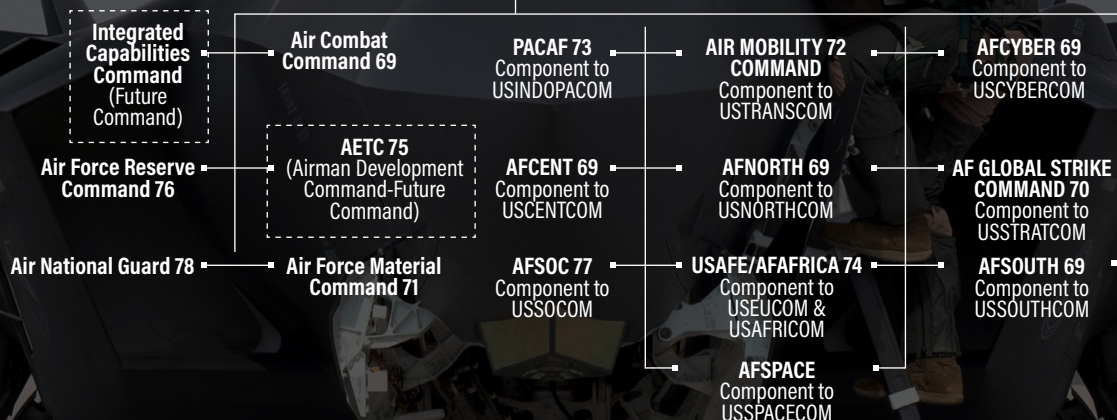

CHIEF OF STAFF OF THE AIR FORCE

AIR FORCE INSTITUTIONAL COMMANDS (Organize, Train, & Equip)

Institutional commands will organize, train, and equip Airmen.

AIR FORCE SERVICE COMPONENT COMMANDS (Warfighting)

Service Component Commands will prepare Airmen for warfighting in a combatant command's area of responsibility.

Staff Sgt. Holly Cook

Future Commands announced February 2024

The Air Force has traditionally referred to its largest organizations as “Major Commands.” But in February 2024, Chief of Staff Gen. David W. Allvin suggested that term did little to define what those commands really do or lend to the Air Force, and that other terminology is more accurate: Institutional Commands that are responsible to the Department of the Air Force for developing personnel, or systems, or combat readiness, and Component Commands that are responsible to the nation's combatant commands for generating combat capability.

ACC

AIR COMBAT COMMAND

JB Langley-Eustis, Va.
